

Malio OCR benchmark — per-engine detail

Generated 2026-10-07T20:35:41+00:00 UTC · 4 adjudicated phone-photo invoices · 7 engine configs run · 1 BLOCKED

This report shows the complete raw-OCR output and extracted canonical JSON for every engine × document pair, ranked by field-extraction success. For each engine section, you can see exactly what the engine produced and compare it to the adjudicated ground truth, field by field.

Executive ranking

Primary rank: PRESENT fields correctly extracted (the hard question — did the engine recover a value that was on the document?). Tiebreak: total correct including ABSENT matches.

#8 — abbyy-fre12-heb-ara-eng [BLOCKED]

This engine did not run on any document in this benchmark. The scaffold is in place, but access is blocked (SDK not installed, license missing, or similar).

Reason:

BLOCKED: ABBYY FineReader Engine COM object not creatable. Install the licensed SDK and register FREngine, then confirm with `Type.GetTypeFromProgID("FREngine.Engine.12")` from a .NET REPL.`

Methodology & caveats

Candidates (local — six per roadmap §4): RivoksLab/paddleocr-hebrew (word, line), Tesseract + tessdata_best, Tesseract + tessdata_fast, Kraken (medium multilingual), IronOCR (2026.10.2 + Hebrew/Arabic language packs), ABBYY FineReader Engine 12.

Reference control: Google Cloud Vision DOCUMENT_TEXT_DETECTION. A CLOUD control, not one of the six candidates (roadmap §1 forbids hosted OCR in the main benchmark). Rendered alongside the local engines for comparison.

Scoring (roadmap §7): exact-match per field after NFC + whitespace normalization. IDs are strings (leading zeros preserved); amounts compared via Decimal at annotated precision; dates compared as ISO yyyy-mm-dd. Fields marked UNREADABLE or AMBIGUOUS in the ground truth are excluded from denominators (visible as 'excl.' in per-field tables).

Known bottleneck: every engine pipes through the same deterministic regex extractor (pdf-tests/extractor.py). It was designed for text-layer PDFs with exact Hebrew labels and clean decimal formats, so Hebrew OCR noise and dot-vs-comma amounts cause the parser to return null even when the correct tokens are visible in the raw OCR text. Fixing the parser lifts every engine's score.

n = 4. Wilson 95% CIs are too wide to statistically rank engines. This report demonstrates pipeline function and surfaces per-document strengths; roadmap §6 calls for ~100 adjudicated invoices before conclusions on engine selection.
